

Over half of respondents report that high rates of social distancing are impacting the mental health of those in their household and others in the community. The Department of Human Services Behavioral Health Division has compiled a list of behavioral health resources on their website. DHS has also expanded access to telehealth services to provide behavioral health services to vulnerable North Dakotans. More information is available here: www.nd.gov/dhs/locations/regionalhsc/.

